Course: IS-2900 National Disaster Recovery Framework (NDRF) Overview

Date: Course is now available online.

Course Length:

The overall time to complete the course will vary for each individual. IS-2900 takes approximately 120 minutes.

Course Description:

This course is an introduction to NDRF, the new national framework for efficient and timely disaster recovery operations. It describes the NDRF, gives examples of its use in recent disasters, explains the roles various stakeholders from the whole community have in recovery following a disaster, and outlines the assistance available to local communities and their partners. The course uses videos and examples to show how recovery operates within the NDRF.

Course Goal:

Upon completing this course, the participant will be able to:

1. Describe why the NDRF was developed and its purpose.
2. Identify NDRF's Core Recovery Principles.
3. List factors for achieving a successful disaster recovery.
4. State the roles and responsibilities of recovery coordinators and other stakeholders.
5. Identify the Recovery Support Functions (RSFs) that comprise the NDRF's coordinating structure for key functional areas of assistance.

Prerequisite:

None

Continuing Education Units (CEUs):

Emergency Management Institute (EMI) awards 0.2 CEUs for completion of this course.

Target Audience:

The target audience is anyone who may be involved in disaster recovery. This includes Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) staff as well as non-Federal Government executives, private sector and non-governmental organization (NGO) leaders, emergency managers, community development professionals, disaster recovery practitioners, and citizens of impacted communities.
